Award-winning chocolate artist Patrick Roger (Meilleur Ouvrier de France chocolatier, 2000) has pursued a parallel body of longer-lasting work, creating sculptures in a variety of materials, including bronze, aluminium, silicone, marble, and concrete. He begins with chocolate as a base, working this malleable material quickly with techniques he has perfected over many years, before casting it. This book, the third volume of his sculpted works, beautifully illustrates nearly 200 of his new creations, each with their precise description, and spectacular images.
