

Audio Visual on Visual and Related Media Edited by Holger Lunds

ISBN	9783897902930
Publisher	Arnoldsche Art Publishers
Binding	Hardback
Territory	USA & Canada
Size	6.97 in x 10.12 in
Pages	320 Pages
Illustrations	26 color, 178 b&w
Price	$65.00

- This book details the advances in visual music and the interplay of cutting-edge media
- An exciting book on what is going on right now in the new media: from the experimental sector to the club scene

As a publication, Audio Visual is divided into two sections: the first deals with the academic discussion on the subject of visual music; the second introduces contemporary paradigms of audio-visual praxis in brief presentations and contextualises them. Apart from being a guide in the historical sense, this new volume provides theoretical approaches to understanding and making of visual music. The subject is approached from the fringe (music video, expanded cinema, games, etc.) so that the phenomenon can be more accurately defined via interfaces with other forms of audio-visual production. Drawing heavily on examples, the individual essays discuss various aspects of visual music. Contemporary approaches to producing and handling visual music are presented in brief essays that abound with examples.

The texts and illustrations are intended to introduce visual music from a great many angles, including the perspectives of musicians, artists, curators, festival directors and software developers, and provide insights into what is currently going on both in the experimental sector and at clubs. The approaches and results presented in the book can be verified and checked with the accompanying DVD that features earlier and current examples of visual music. The DVD shows mainly material from live performances that is often extremely hard to find, be it from expanded cinema or performances by VJs and musicians.