

Hiroshige: Landscape, Cityscape
Woodblock Prints in the Ashmolean Museum
Clare Pollard
Mitsuko Watanabe

ISBN	9781854442956
Publisher	Ashmolean Museum
Binding	Paperback / softback
Territory	USA & Canada
Size	7.87 in x 10.51 in
Pages	160 Pages
Illustrations	107 color
Price	$24.95

- Full color illustration and detailed discussion of over 50 prints from the Ashmolean Museum's collection offering an introduction to Hiroshige's life and work
- Includes a detailed discussion of the processes of Japanese wood-block print making

Hugely popular in his own day and an enormous influence on Monet, van Gogh and other leading European artists, Utagawa Hiroshige (1797-1858) has never lost his appeal. A prolific artist, he produced between 4,000 and 5,000 woodblock print designs. He is particularly renowned for his landscape prints, which are among the most frequently reproduced of all Japanese art in both Japan and the West. Hiroshige's unusual compositions, humorous depictions of people involved in everyday activities and masterly expression of weather, light and season, are explored in this publication with its especially fine printing and experts' notations. It is part of a series featuring the depth of the Japanese art holdings at the Ashmolean Museum of the University of Oxford, the world's first university art museum. The gems of information are numerous, including a page on "how to read a print" — with such as a note on "the censor's mark," a detail that only the cognoscenti might recognize. The book adds greatly to the art lover's knowledge and pleasure.

Contents:

How to 'read' a Japanese Print, Preface, Utagawa Hiroshige (1797-1858) Woodblock Print Designer, Making a Japanese Woodblock Print, I Views along the Tokaido, II Views of the Provinces, III Views of Edo, IV Views of Mount Fuji, Further Reading.

Clare Pollard is Curator of Japanese Art at the Ashmolean Museum, University of Oxford. Mitsuko Ito Watanabe is Assistant Director at the Oxford Centre for Asian Archaeology, Art and Culture and Research Associate in the Ashmolean Museum's Department of Eastern Art.

